Innovations in Practice

WCHD has a long-standing partnership with the Washoe County Sheriff's Office to provide FP services to individuals who are incarcerated. Historically, this population has lacked access to health care before, during, and after incarceration. Services include offering reproductive health counseling, providing contraception, testing for STIs, and making referrals. WCHD's community health workers (CHWs) also visit the sheriff's office once a month to do a "walk and talk" about the services WCHD offers and to let the office know of schedule availability.

Did You Know?

In addition to the outreach at the sheriff's office, WCHD's CHWs have used other innovative ways of getting the word out about the services WCHD offers. In the past, CHWs filmed short commercials about the health district and the FP services it provides on platforms like YouTube and Instagram. CHWs have also traveled to rural parts of the county with WCHD's immunization teams to share information about WCHD's FP services.

WCHD has made several changes to its clinical approach to make service delivery more client centered. The biggest change has been shifting the focus of appointments to address a client's primary concern. For example, in the past, some providers required cervical cancer screening before providing birth control, which may have required the client to come back to the clinic for a second visit. Now, providers focus on the immediate needs of clients and offer contraception on request while educating clients about cervical cancer screenings and vaccinations and encouraging them to come back for them. WCHD also uses an annual satisfaction survey to collect client feedback, and plans to roll out another survey focused on clients' experiences with the clinic's contraceptive counseling.

WCHD is partnering with Planned Parenthood Mar Monte to offer a brief, evidence-based video intervention called Plan A to adolescent clients at the health district and in youth homeless shelters in the community. The video is designed to reduce unplanned pregnancies and STIs among young women. At the health district, CHWs offer the intervention to adolescent clients, who typically watch the 20-minute video in the waiting or exam room. Client feedback on the video has been positive and allowed CHWs to build rapport with adolescent clients.
